Impostor Syndrome

/im'pəstər/ ' /sin,drōm/

A concept describing individuals who are marked by an inability to internalize their accomplishments and a persistent fear of being exposed as a "fraud".

“What if they find out I’m not as smart as they think I am?”

“I can’t pull this hack off? Who am I kidding?”

“This exploit will never work”

“Lucky me, I was in the right place at the right time.”

“If I can do it, anyone can do it.”

% Of Respondents With Imposter Syndrome In The Past Year

“Imposter Syndrome... when you work in tech, everybody has it and nobody talks about it. You're SUPPOSED to be the smartest person in the room! You're the software engineer genius, and you should know it all, right?!

Here's the truth: we were all imposters at some point. No matter how skilled or expert you are today, YOU WERE ONCE A NOOB TOO!

So stop pretending you know it all... raise your hand and ask the question... embrace the fact that tech is a constant flux of learning” - Caleb Hurd
